LOOKING BACK ON RESPECT LIFE MONTH

For the second year in a row, the OLW Respect Life Ministry scheduled a full month of events - from donuts to donations we not only invited the parish to pray for life through a very meditative novena, we once again attended the March for Life in Palatine and held perpetual adoration in the Gathering Place. We are so thankful to all of our parishioners who took part in these events.

We are so thankful that from October 22 - 24, Our Lord was attended for all 40 hours creating an unbreakable chain of prayer before His Holy Face. The generosity of our parish was shown through the new items purchased for our month long baby shower to help women with unexpected pregnancies through Aid for Women. Thank you to everyone who participated! Palatine's March for Life was beautiful - many Waysiders joined together with others to march down Northwest Highway and cheer for the sanctity of life!

We are also thankful to our Lord and our Blessed Mother for without them, nothing like this could have been possible. We are truly blessed!

We'd like to ask you to continue to pray for us, our mission, and those who are suffering from the effects of or considering the intentional taking of innocent life. And please pray all for pro life advocates, like the multiple pro-lifers including 74-year-old Joan Bell, 73-year-old Jean Marshall and 41-year-old Jonathan Darnel who were convicted of FACE violations and face prison time for peacefully protesting and praying against the murder of the unborn.

LOVE & CHARITY, NOW

30th Sunday in Ordinary Time - Year A

Father Arthur Marat

We need God and each other more than ever. The Gospel command to love God with our whole heart, soul and mind, and our neighbors as ourselves, brings this reality home. In a nation where we enjoy food, having our necessities met, comfortable homes, a good education and innumerable pleasures, it is easy to fall into pettiness and to judge others based on these aspects of life. With so much abundance, we begin to incorrectly think we are self-sufficient. Instead of seeing our neighbors as those we should love, we view them as competition.

I was fortunate to grow up in Poland during Communist rule. Fortunate? Yes. During that time, my family and many other families went without food, new clothing, furniture, a car, and other things we take for granted in the United States. This poverty was actually a gift because it pushed us to rely on God and the good will and sacrifices of others. At that time, new boots were scarce where I lived. As a newly ordained priest, I was in need of boots so I could walk in the remote area of my parish. I will never forget the lady at a local store who, when she got a new pair of boots, put them aside for me and snuck me into the back of the shop to give them to me while a line of people waited outside to buy what few items were on the shelves.

In her kindness, the store owner knew I was in need. Our seeming poverty was a richness in that it brought us together, to help each other, to appreciate the small things, human kindness, and simple hospitality. We had to work together to survive not only a brutal regime, but also the elements.

The world today is on edge and, based on what many have shared, you are as well. Our future is uncertain. With this in mind, I invite you to take stock of the Gospel message and to make an effort to practice charity among your family members, colleagues, and fellow students. The truth is: we don't know when the good times will end. The time may come when we will need to rely on good will and charity from others. That person you despise today might become the person God sends to help you later. We won't have time to judge others based on wealth, possessions, or status. As Mother Teresa of Calcutta once said: "If you are too busy judging someone, you don't have time to love them." So let us get on with leading truly Christian lives, and seeing and loving each other as God loves us, not only because He commands it, but because we don't know what the future holds.

Yours in Christ,
Father Arthur

All Saints' and All Souls' Days

All Saints' Day is one of six holy days of obligation in the United States. It is celebrated annually on November 1. It is the church's way of reminding us of our final destination in paradise, if we are faithful to the teachings of Christ. All the saints are part of our family; we are sons and daughters of the same heavenly Father through Jesus Christ. Interesting fact: Halloween is supposed to be the anticipation of the celebration of All Saints' Day. The day after All Saints' Day is All Souls' Day (November 2), a day to remember and pray for our loved ones who have died.

“Blessed are those who mourn, for they shall be comforted.”

Strong feelings may surface months, and even years after the person died. The goal of this group is to help you understand your feelings are normal; guide you in learning about the grief process; and give you a safe place to share your thoughts, feelings and experiences in a faith setting.

Registrations are limited. Please register by no later than Wednesday, October 18, 2023.

What is a Friend?

Discovering what it means to be a friend is part of the teenage experience. Teens are busy creating their self identity; which often means their friends and allies may change depending upon their interests. If you have or are surrounded by teens you may notice teens often become 'best friends' with another teen very quickly. However, just as quickly as the 'best friendship' bloomed, it can also easily wither.

Shifting friend groups may be normal for teens, but that doesn't mean it doesn't hurt. Teens need guidance and understanding from the trusted adults in their life about what it means to be a healthy friend and how to recognize when someone is being a good friend or being a bad friend. Below is a checklist to help you get the conversation started about good vs bad friends.

Good vs Bad friend check list

There's a place at the end to add your own opinions

A Good Friend

- Is kind to you
- Spends time with you
- Respects you

- Never bullies you
- Will defend you when you aren't around
- Compliments you
- Listens to you
- Trusts you
- Shares feelings with you

A Bad Friend

- Is mean to you
- Ignores you or ditches you
- Disrespects you
- Makes demands of you
- Manipulates you
- Forces you to do things you don't want to do
- Bullies you
- Talks behind your back
- Spreads gossip about you
- Rips you down with their words
- Doesn't listen to you

Look beyond our differences

Healing serious division is challenging. The deeper the breach, the tougher the reconciliation. Since 1567, mainline Protestant denominations have celebrated Reformation Day on this Sunday. Yet in 2016, Pope Francis also acknowledged this observance, reaching out to the head of the Lutheran Church to state: "With gratitude we acknowledge that the Reformation helped give a greater centrality to sacred Scripture in the Church's life." Catholic-Lutheran dialogue continues to express the gifts of the Reformation and to seek forgiveness for division perpetuated by Christians from both traditions. Our witness is stronger together. Collaborate across the aisle.

THIRTIETH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

TODAY'S READINGS: Exodus 22:20-26; 1 Thessalonians 1:5c-10; Matthew 22:34-40 (148). "For from you the word of the Lord has sounded forth.... in every place your faith in God has gone forth."

Healing on tap

When you read the gospels, you can't help but be amazed by how much of Jesus' public ministry was devoted to healing the sick, whether in body, mind, or soul. The church continues Christ's healing ministry as central to its works in myriad ways. Pope Benedict XVI said, "Healing is an essential dimension of the apostolic mission and of Christian faith in general." In fact, he said, Christianity is a "religion of healing." What troubles your body and spirit? Bring it to Jesus to be restored to health and wholeness.

TODAY'S READINGS: Romans 8:12-17; Luke 13:10-17 (479). "He laid his hands on her, and she at once stood up straight and glorified God."

Death be not proud

From the Irish we get ancient Celtic elements of Samhain, the idea of a veil separating the living from the dead becoming so thin that it's permeable. From Mexico, we get Día de los Muertos: visiting loved ones' graves, awaiting a festive reunion as the separation between life and death momentarily dissolves. For Halloween, treat-seeking kids dress as devils, vampires, and zombies—traversing yards bedecked with tombstones and skeletons. Or, if we've attended Catholic schools, the focus is more heavenly, with costumes of saints and angels. However we observe this Eve of All Saints, our Catholic belief about the "last things" comes with an assurance that we are meant to return to the one who loved us into existence. "At the evening of life," says Saint John of the Cross, "we shall be judged on our love."

TODAY'S READINGS: Romans 8:18-25; Luke 13:18-21 (480). "I consider that the sufferings of this present time are as nothing compared with the glory to be revealed for us."

See the saints in living color

Today as the church celebrates All Saints, parishes and websites around the globe will feature an image of 15th-century Dominican Friar Fra Angelico's The Forerunners of Christ with Saints and Martyrs. This much-loved painting was originally part of an altarpiece in the Church of San Domenico near Florence. Most of the hallowed figures in the painting look toward Christ. They appear in long rows and represent important male and female biblical figures, martyrs, and saints, including Saint John the Baptist in the top row, wearing a camel-hair tunic and holding a wooden cross. He looks directly at the viewer and points the way to Christ—exactly his role in salvation history. Christian art is a great tool for learning about the saints, Christian symbolism, and Catholic theology, and the paintings and frescoes of Fra Angelico are a good place to start.

SOLEMNITY OF ALL SAINTS (HOLY DAY OF OBLIGATION)

TODAY'S READINGS: Revelation 7:2-4, 9-14; 1 John 3:1-3; Matthew 5:1-12a (667). "Humbly regard others as more important than yourselves."

A work in progress

The notion of "purgatory" is really quite simple and true to human experience. All of life is a process, and our best efforts can lead to progress but never perfection in this lifetime. What makes today special is that we can all participate in that process with our dearly departed, by our prayers, our good and generous deeds, and at Mass. Lend a helping hand today to those who are further along in the process. And may we all meet again one day, and, in the meantime we pray, "May the souls of all the faithful departed, through the mercy of God, rest in peace."

COMMEMORATION OF ALL THE FAITHFUL DEPARTED (ALL SOULS' DAY)

TODAY'S READINGS: Wisdom 3:1-9; Romans 5:5-11 or Romans 6:3-9; John 6:37-40 (668). "And this is the will of the one who sent me, that I should not lose anything of what he gave me, but that I should raise it on the last day."

The struggle continues

On September 30, 1962 riots broke out at the University of Mississippi as James Meredith, accompanied by U.S. marshals, walked to campus to register for classes. Many fought to keep him out, but justice prevailed. Meredith would become the first black student at Ole Miss. Today, the nearby church of St. John the Evangelist honors this memory with a stained-glass window of Martin de Porres facing the street where Meredith began his walk to the university. De Porres, too, had experienced racism and was barred from becoming a priest in 17th-century Peru because of the color of his skin. Saint Martin de Porres, pray for us on the long march of equality.

MEMORIAL OF MARTIN DE PORRES, RELIGIOUS

TODAY'S READINGS: Romans 9:1-5; Luke 14:1-6 (483). "My conscience joins with the Holy Spirit in bearing me witness."

Be an instrument of change

During his first homily as pope in 2013, Pope Francis quoted Léon Bloy, a 20th-century French novelist who was known for his passionate defense of the faith. In 1904 he became friends with Raïssa Maritain, a poet, philosopher, and Hasidic Jew. She was so influenced by Bloy that she, along with her well-known husband Jacques, and her sister Vera, converted to Catholicism, with Bloy as sponsor. The "three Maritains" as they were known, took their place at the center of a circle of French Catholic intellectuals. Raïssa died on this day in 1960. What kind of influence might you have on those searching for a faith to believe in?

TODAY'S READINGS: Romans 11:1-2a, 11-12, 25-29; Luke 14:1, 7-11 (484). "The one who humbles himself will be exalted."

GOSPEL MEDITATION:

October 29, 2023

30th Sunday in Ordinary Time

In our secularized culture, we all struggle with belief in God, at least to some degree. An atheist man named Robert Bridges once wrote to his friend, the Jesuit poet Gerard Manley Hopkins, asking how he could possibly learn to believe in God. Hopkins pithily responded: "Give alms." Would that help someone tempted by atheism today, like you and me?

I think so, and here's why. This week Jesus speaks of love for God and neighbor. These dual commands were nothing new when Jesus used them to sum up the Jewish law. What is new is the way he links them together in mutual dependency. In Jesus, God and man have become one. Human-love and God-love are now inseparably married forever.

The newness of the God-man means that there is now a permanently counter-intuitive way into the knowledge and love of God: love of our neighbor. To experience charity is to know God. That's what Hopkins was getting at for his friend. How we treat our fellow human beings is inseparable from faith in God. Do you want to have a stronger sense of God's loving presence and goodness? Commit to serving someone today and this week. Love him or her. Don't wait for love for God to appear in your heart before loving others. Jesus has united divine and human love. If you want to believe more in God, give alms.
