Twenty-ninth Sunday in Ordinary Time

WHAT DOES IT MEAN TO WALK WITH MOMS IN NEED?

We have used the term Walking With Moms in Need quite a bit at Respect Life. But what does it really mean and who is behind it?

In short, Walking with Moms in Need is a nationwide, parish-based USCCB initiative to increase support for pregnant and parenting mothers in need. It works to ensure that any woman who finds herself unexpectedly pregnant, or parenting in difficult circumstances, can turn to her local Catholic Church and be connected with the resources she needs. Volunteers walk with moms throughout the motherhood journey, offering them authentic Christian friendship and ongoing support.

Inspired by the encyclical, Evangelium Vitae, Pope St. John Paul II explains that the Gospel of Life is at the heart of Jesus' saving message to the world. Through the Incarnation of Christ, God reveals to us the dignity of all human life. Each of us is made in the image and likeness of God, reflecting his glory and his imprint. We are therefore called to "respect, defend and promote the dignity of every human person, at every moment and in every condition of that person's life." Parishes, through the support of their bishops and pastors, are invited to join this effort to increase the Church's outreach and support to pregnant women facing difficult or unexpected pregnancies. Pregnant and parenting moms in need are in our parishes and our neighborhoods, but in desperation, they are turning to other places for help.

We'd love for you to join our ministry! Email RespectLife@olwparish.org today.

Women facing challenging pregnancies should see the Church as a place where they can find help, especially with its extensive social services dedicated to meeting the needs of people in crisis. Through Walking with Moms in Need the Church is being asked to respond to Pope John Paul II's call and honestly assess the pastoral and practical assistance that it currently provides to pregnant moms and families in need and how effective it is in communicating such help. At OLW Parish, we participate in the Northwest Walking With Moms in Need website. Please scan this QR Code today to learn more.

UNWAVERING FAITH

29thSunday in Ordinary Time (World Mission Sunday)

Father Arthur Marat

This Sunday is World Mission Sunday in the Catholic Church throughout the world. The Resurrected Christ gave His disciples the indication: "Go into the whole world and proclaim the gospel to every creature." This command reveals how the function of the Church has a dynamic, missionary character.

Let us go back in time to the 17th century when one of the first missionaries to our continent lived. Jean de Brebeuf was his name, and he was a Jesuit priest from a noble family from Normandy, France. When he was 32 years old, Jean came to Canada. There, he lived among the Huron tribe of Native Americans. He gradually learned their language and wrote catechisms. He even composed a dictionary in the Huron language. St. Jean became a close friend to the Native Americans, yet, none converted during the first three years he lived among them. He even was a missionary and friend among the Algonquin Native Americans, and even they did not convert. St. Jean was a missionary among the Native Americans for 3 years and none of them converted! Can you imagine? He had no success!

In the year 1636, an epidemic of smallpox struck the Native Americans. And, when they saw how St. Jean and his companions were not affected by the disease, they considered them to be very special. They became very open to these missionaries and during the next four years, 7,000 native Americans converted to Catholicism and were baptized. Sady, a few months later, in the middle of the night, another Native American tribe attacked the Hurons and captured St. Jean. This tribe tortured Jean in the most terrible way. But God gave Jean strength. When the Native Americans saw how Jean was being tortured and tortured but did not die, they wanted his strength. So, as was their custom, they tore open St. Jean's chest, took out his heart, and ate it. The Native Americans believed that by eating someone's heart, you obtain their power. In this way, St. Jean died a martyr's death.

We know from St. Jean's letters that he had a very deep relationship with God. And his missionary faith deepened when he experienced the futility of his efforts. When St. Jean did not see any results of his efforts, he decided to rely only on God.

In our lives, we too often experience situations where we do something for our family, for our friends, for our co-workers, and even for the Church, but we do not see results. When this happens, we should not be discouraged. Instead, let us try to imitate St. Jean who entrusted Himself to God and God's Love.

On this missionary Sunday, I would like to encourage each of you to take some time to think about your lives and to offer your lives to Jesus. You can do this by saying this short prayer: "Thank you Jesus for your Love."

-Father Arthur

BEING A EUCHARISTIC ADORER.

Perpetual adoration of the exposed Blessed Sacrament is a beautiful and transformative experience that is only possible when we have at least one Eucharistic Guardian for every hour our Lord is exposed, ensuring He is never left alone. Grief Support Group for Adults - FALL, 2024

"Blessed are those who mourn, for they shall be comforted."

Our Lady of the Wayside Ministry of Bereavement offers a grief support program for adults. This six-week program is open to adult men and women parishioners who have suffered the loss of a spouse, parent, adult child or sibling through death.

"Companions on the Journey" - A Place and a Time to Heal

Mondays: October 28, November 4, 11, 18, 25, and December 2 10 am to 12 pm in the Our Lady of the Wayside Parish Center

Even with deep faith, grief work is hard. People say you should be, "over it by now," but you are not. You may feel lonely, angry, depressed, overwhelmed or confused. Others have gone back to their daily routines, but your life will never be the same. Strong feelings may surface months or even years after your loved one died. The goal of this group is to help you understand your feelings are normal, guide you in learning about the grief process, and give you a safe place to share your thoughts, feelings and experiences in a faith setting.

To register, please do one of the following: (by October 18)

- Call Kathy O'Neill at (224) 518-1780
- Email Kathy O'Neill at parishnurse@olwparish.org with the following information:
 - (1) Your first and last name, phone number, email address.
 - (2) The first and last name of your loved one, relationship to you (i.e. spouse, parent, sibling, adult child) and date of your loved one's death.

FORMING CONSCIENCES FAITHFUL CITIZENSHIP

Solidarity

for Faithful Citizenship, the Catholic bishops of the United States identify the four main principles of the Church's social teaching and apply them to some concrete issues. This is not to tell the faithful for whom or against whom to vote, but instead to help them form their consciences in accordance with God's truth as they approach this often-challenging decision. The four main principles are the Dignity of the Human Person, the Common Good, Solidarity, and Subsidiarity. They are all interrelated. This bulletin focuses on Solidarity, and the other three principles are covered in three other bulletins in this series.

Solidarity is "a firm and persevering determination to commit oneself to . . . the good of all and of each individual, because we are all really responsible for all." We are one human family, whatever our national, racial, ethnic, economic, and ideological differences. The person is social in nature; we develop and flourish within a community. As baptized members of the community of the Church, we are part of one body in Christ and we are also part of one global human family.²

In Fratelli Tutti (On Fraternity and Social Friendship) Pope Francis places solidarity at the center of what it means to cultivate social friendship as one family:

Solidarity means much more than engaging in sporadic acts of generosity. It means thinking and acting in terms of community. It means that the lives of all are prior to the appropriation of goods by a few. It also means combatting the structural causes of poverty, inequality, the lack of work, land, and housing, the denial of social and labor rights.³

Thus, solidarity affects not only the goals we pursue in public life, but also the way we pursue them—ever mindful that we are all brothers and sisters, all children of God.

"Solidarity requires that in our prayer and in our political engagement, those who are weak, vulnerable, and most in need receive preferential concern."

Solidarity requires that in our prayer and in our political engagement, those who are weak, vulnerable, and most in need receive preferential concern.

In imitation of the Good Samaritan, we seek to be neighbor to all.⁴ We are called to practice "radical solidarity" by accompanying pregnant women to choose life and by offering support to new mothers and their children.⁵ As neighbors to all, we also advocate for families affected by poverty, unemployment, or illness, individuals struggling with mental illness or addiction, the elderly and those with disabilities, and all whose livelihoods and homes are endangered by climate change.⁶

In countries ravaged by war, such as Ukraine, West Africa, and the Middle East, we must "touch the wounded flesh of the victims" and support efforts for relief and peace, while also working collaboratively to reduce and eliminate nuclear weapons.

"In imitation of the Good Samaritan, we seek to be neighbor to all."

We seek policies that "welcome, protect, promote, and integrate" migrants and refugees who arrive at our borders, and which aid development in countries of origin.⁹

Racism is an obstacle to solidarity, and we strive to root it out not only by examining our hearts individually, but also by looking critically at our policies and institutions.¹⁰

In a culture that overemphasizes the accumulation of wealth, we must not forget our "obligation to ensure that every person lives with dignity and has sufficient opportunities for his or her integral development."¹¹

As we seek to foster solidarity in hearts and policies, let us pray with Pope Francis in Fratelli Truti:

Lord, Father of our human family . . . Move us to create healthier societies and a more dignified world, a world without hunger, poverty, violence and war. Amen. 12

Bullying Warning Signs

If your child is bullying others

What to say:

Model respectful behavior. Explain why bullying is never okay, and how it harms others. Give real examples of the results of your child's actions.

What to teach:

Work with your child to understand some of the reasons they bullied. Help your child make amends by apologizing.

What to do:

- Support activities that interest your child. Provide opportunities for your child to socialize with other children under adult guidance.
- Use consequences that involve learning or building empathy. Assign reading or roleplay scenarios about respecting others and being a good friend.
- Praise acts of kindness and talk about what it means to be a good friend.

Source: StopBullying.gov, https://www.stopbullying.gov/bullying/warning-signs

If your child is a bystander to bullying

What to say:

Witnessing bullying can have similar mental health consequences as being directly involved. Let your child know that standing up for another child is an act of courage, and to only intervene if they feel they can do so safely.

What to teach:

- Intervene by helping the bullied child get away if you can.
- Interrupt by changing the subject or questioning the bullying behavior.
- Reach out privately to the bullied child to let them know they are not alone. Those who bully are encouraged by attention, so do not actively support it.

What to do:

Model calm and respectful behavior. If you as a parent notice bullying around you, step in immediately. Setting a standard for quick and consistent response sends the message that bullying will not be tolerated.

Getting Help for Your Child

Most schools have anti-bullying policies in place. Many states have bullying laws and policies. Reach out to a professional, like a teacher, counselor, or your child's pediatrician.

Sample questions for addressing your child's needs in school

What strategies are in place or could be in place to help my child?

Discuss what anti-bullying measures have been used and what is available.

When can we meet again?

Recognize that emails and phone calls/texts can happen between meetings when questions or concerns arise.

May I have a copy?

Make copies for everyone involved. Be ready to maintain a log of any additional incidents and how they were handled.

If your school will not address bullying based on discrimination, you can contact the school superintendent; State Department of Education; U.S. Department of Education, Office for Civil Rights; or the U.S. Department of Justice, Civil Rights Division.

WORD OF THE WEEK

Mission \ 'mi-shən\

From Latin missio, "to send," the act of continuing Christ's work in bringing the Good News to all the Earth. The purpose for which Christ commissioned his church: "Go, therefore, and make disciples of all nations" (see Matt 28:19).

Pronunciation: https://tinyurl.com/Take5-mission

CONTEXT

Mission is not primarily an activity of the church, but an attribute of God. God is a missionary God.

-Christian theologian David

The Christian mission is now! Each one of us is called to become a witness of the Lord, here and now.

—Pope Francis

WHY IT MATTERS

"The church does not have missions, it is mission," so says Catholic scholar Father Robert Schreiter, C.PP.S., offering the best word on the subject. Mission is the reason the church exists, if we've heard Jesus' command to go, preach, and baptize correctly. Understanding that mission is for all of us, and not just for professional missionaries, is vital to fulfilling our baptismal call.

From the Catechism of the Catholic Church: The origin and purpose of mission. The Lord's missionary mandate is ultimately grounded in the eternal love of the Most Holy Trinity. The ultimate purpose of mission is none other than to make men share in the communion between the Father and the Son in their Spirit of love (850).

RELATED WORDS

Missiology | Great Commission | Apostle

QUESTION OF THE WEEK

What is mission?

Why take the gospel to the ends of the Earth? Because good news is meant for sharing. What God has done for humanity in Jesus is meant for a wider audience than the already convinced.

Mark and Matthew see the primary tools of Jesus' mission as preaching, healing, and dispelling demons. Yet John declares the mission of Jesus is to "bear witness to the truth." In Luke and Acts, the goal of mission is to preach and do justice. Paul emphasizes a gospel of reconciliation to "establish peace" where there was once division.

The church continues to reinterpret its understanding of mission. In 1919 Pope Benedict XV uncoupled evangelization from the dubious goals of colonization. Pius XI championed the ordination of indigenous bishops in mission territories. Pius XII and John XXIII saw the need for more sensitivity to local culture in the mission field, which was given the name "inculturation" by John Paul II. Today, works of justice, inculturation, and an evangelization emphasizing dialogue are hallmarks of Catholic Christian mission.

REFLECTION OF THE WEEK

WORLD MISSION SUNDAY (OCTOBER 20)

Boundless love

God's domain knows no boundaries, no puny distinctions between race and nations. All belong to God; all are beloved of God. On this World Mission Sunday, we who are baptized into Christ are reminded to see a border-free world: Everything and everyone belongs to God. It is our mission to love and cherish all persons, no matter what side of the border or the tracks they reside.

READINGS: Isaiah 53:10-11; Hebrews 4:14-16; Mark 10:35-45 (146 https://bible.usccb.org/bible/readings/102024.cfm). "The cup that I drink, you will drink."

FAITH IN ACTION

Share the Good News of Christ Jesus to even those you deem unworthy. And pray they do the same.

GOSPEL MEDITATION:

October 20, 2024

29th Sunday in Ordinary Time

From a young age, I loved winning at sports. I confess that winning was a bit of an addiction. It was probably coming from a deep desire for attention and affirmation from others. Nevertheless, it was a driving motivation for me. Baseball, soccer, track, table tennis, and whatever else I could find was a chance to win. Competition was my obsession.

Another John, and his brother James, demonstrate a kind of wildly competitive obsession when they dare to say to Jesus: "Grant us to sit, one at your right hand and one at your left, in your glory" (Mark 10:37). Their audacity arouses an indigent reaction from the other apostles, who are clearly raw that these two are out to win the highest spots.

How does Jesus respond to us in our desires for greatness? The same way he does to James and John. He does not criticize them for their desire for glory. But he does highlight their ignorance ("you do not know what you are asking."). Then he invites them to be champions of true greatness: by drinking not the cup of worldly victory, but his cup of self-giving suffering love, to be the "slave of all." The true winners are slaves of love. This week, dare to tell Jesus what your ambitions truly are. Hear him call you to an even greater victory.

— Father John Muir
