All Our Strength

By Colleen Jurkiewicz Dorman

I didn't realize how much my arms would hurt when I became a mom.

It occurred to me first during Mass when my daughter was just a few weeks old. She was the kind of kid who could only sleep in someone's arms.

I desperately wanted her to stay quiet during the service, so I held the swaddled bundle in front of me like it was a bomb, not daring to move. By the homily, my arms were on fire.

I quickly realized this was a common scenario of my new life as a parent. Holding, rocking, bouncing, restraining, dragging — honestly, my weak little chicken-arms had never been worked out like this before. It took all my strength.

But isn't that the way it is with everything that's worthwhile? It takes all your strength. Not some of it. Not most of it. All of it.

I am a fairly active Catholic. My faith impacts a lot of areas of my life. But there are still boundaries that I've drawn around God. There are places I haven't let Him in. Things I keep "for myself." Experiences that are just so full of me, so full of my own plans and my own desires.

But God desires everything. Not because He is selfish, but because He is good, and wise. Because He knows that the places we keep from Him will become filled with something else. He wants to get there first. He wants to lay His claim.

He wants all our strength. All our heart. All our soul. All our mind. Not most of it. All of it.

Can we give it to Him?

Survival Tips for Grief

After the loss of a loved one, it can be difficult to see how to ever go on. The grief journey may seem like a mountain that is too difficult to climb. These are some steps you can take that may help ease that journey.

- Allow your grief. No step is more important than this. Appreciate, accept, and allow your grief as a natural response to your loss. Let yourself feel your pain. Suppressed grief doesn't go away. Grief is a mix of many uncomfortable feelings. You may feel sad, angry, or filled with remorse, regret, or longing. All these feelings are natural.
- Express your grief. Empty out your feelings. Cry when you need to cry. Be angry when you feel angry. Don't suppress yourself or pretend to be stoic. The more you express your pain, the more you free yourself from it.
- Be patient with yourself. Grief is a process that takes time. Moving forward is not necessarily quick and easy, but it is possible. Trust that you can and will cope with your loss. The day will come when you can remember your loved one without pain.
- Keep busy. You cannot dwell on your sorrow or your loss every waking moment. In the first flush of grief, you may feel you cannot control the extent of your suffering. But you can with friends, with activities, and a plan that forms a lifeline.
- Keep a journal. This is a powerful method for expressing pain, as well as a means for having private, intimate time with yourself. Some feelings may be too hard to speak aloud, like anger or regret. Journal writing can serve as a release as well as a meaningful expression of yourself.
- Exercise daily. Move your body. Walking, dancing, swimming, or whatever activity pleases you, can help you feel better. Through exercise, you build your physical strength, release tension, enliven yourself, and keep yourself well. Exercise releases endorphins that will lift your mood.
- Be willing to change things. It is natural to wish to keep things the way they were when our loved one was with us. Still, that doesn't keep the person alive. Although loss is never easy to face, we need to remember we can go on with our lives. We need to take care of ourselves and our needs in the process.

WORD OF THE WEEK

Faithful Citizenship \'fāth-fəl 'si-tə-zən-'ship\

Popular shorthand for the teaching document Forming Consciences for Faithful Citizenship, published by the U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops, and drawing from Catholic scripture, tradition, and social teaching. It offers guidance to U.S. Catholics on the political responsibility to participate in their democracy.

Pronunciation: <https://tinyurl.com/Take5-faithful-citizenship>

CONTEXT

In the Catholic tradition, responsible citizenship is a virtue, and participation in political life is a moral obligation.
—USCCB, Faithful Citizenship

By forming our consciences for faithful citizenship, we can better pursue the common good and thus obey the command of our Lord to love our neighbors.
—USCCB, Faithful Citizenship

WHY IT MATTERS

As Pope Francis explains, “Everything, including political life, belongs to Jesus Christ, and so participation in political life belongs to the mission of the Church.” Of course, “The Church cannot and must not replace the State,” says Pope Benedict. “Yet at the same time she cannot and must not remain on the sidelines in the fight for justice.”

From Forming Consciences for Faithful Citizenship: How can we meet this challenge of forming our consciences? Saint Paul gives us a way: Put on the “mind of Christ” (1 Cor. 2:16). [Step away from media] and “spend time with Holy Scripture and the Blessed Sacrament. . . . Listen in silence. Volunteer at a soup kitchen, a homeless shelter, a crisis pregnancy center. Serve the poor, the needy, the outcast. Pray often.”

QUESTION OF THE WEEK

What is Catholic decision-making?

Church teaching emphasizes that the common good is an essential component in our decision-making. “The common good is the sum total of social conditions which allow people, either as groups or as individuals, to reach their fulfillment more fully and more easily” (CCC, 1906). If this sounds like a huge responsibility, you’re hearing it right. We advance the common good with five principles: defending human life, strengthening families, providing for the disadvantaged, welcoming the immigrant, and protecting the environment. The gravest imperative is to protect life. Direct assaults on life include abortion, capital punishment, euthanasia, genocide, torture, racism, unjust war, and exploitation of creation. The common good also includes ensuring access to healthcare and education, guaranteeing living wages, addressing hunger, encouraging debt relief, ending discrimination, promoting religious freedom, and pursuing peace.

—Alice Camille, from Questions Catholics Ask <http://tinyurl.com/QCA-Catholic-decision-making>

REFLECTION OF THE WEEK

TUESDAY OF THE THIRTY-FIRST WEEK IN ORDINARY TIME, ELECTION DAY IN THE U.S. (NOVEMBER 5)

Please do not excuse yourself

In the parable of the wealthy man, the guests invited to a great feast send their regrets one by one with pathetic excuses. With the benefit of hindsight, we know those guests made a serious miscalculation and are now missing out on an everlasting banquet. Similarly, an invitation is offered to citizens in the United States each Election Day to exercise their right to vote. Yet, too many people offer weak rationales for not seizing the opportunity to help establish a more perfect union.

READINGS: Philippians 2:5-11; Luke 14:15-24 (486) <https://bible.usccb.org/bible/readings/110524.cfm>. “But one by one, they all began to excuse themselves.”

FAITH IN ACTION

How will future citizens of the world—and, more important, the Creator of the Universe—rate the decisions we’ve made? It’s never too late to accept the invitation to act for justice and peace.

GOSPEL MEDITATION:

November 3, 2024

31st Sunday in Ordinary Time

Americans have long been fascinated with public debates. Farmers stood in muddy fields for hours to hear Lincoln and Douglas dispute each other in the 1860 presidential run-up. The televised debate between Kennedy and Nixon in 1960 fascinated the nation. These days, cable news outlets and social media parse every word spoken by candidates. We still love seeing public, rational disputes in the service of our nation.

In his day, Jesus also captured attention as a public debater. Mark tells us, “And one of the scribes came up and heard them disputing with one another, and seeing that he answered them well, asked him, ‘Which commandment is the first of all?’” Jesus’ brief but all-encompassing response is the double command to love God and neighbor. Notice that he includes the importance of loving God with “all your mind.” Loving God is not simply a question of affection, loyalty, good deeds, and religious dedication. It demands honest and intense intellectual engagement — just like an accomplished debater.

How do we do this practically? One simple way is by embracing ourselves as life-long learners. Setting aside time for reading, book studies, online classes, and, perhaps most difficult, engaging in open, honest, and curious conversation with those who think differently from us. These are all great ways to love God with our minds. Our country and our Church depend greatly on souls who love God in this way with their minds. Let’s commit to loving God with all our minds in tireless pursuit of truth

— Father John Muir
